

THE EXCHANGE FILES

Field Report: 3:10 a.m., Lincoln, Nebraska

Government officials are seen moving hundreds of huge, metal-covered containers from the loading dock of a local business. The business seems anxious for the officials to remove them.

When questioned, an official claiming to work for the Parks Service stated that the containers would be used as "water containers to irrigate trees."

The truth or a cover story? A conspiracy? What is the connection?

There is no hidden agenda. The business and the Parks Service both participate in the Materials Exchange Program from Keep Nebraska Beautiful.

It matches materials generated by a company with the needs of others in the state. To the company, the containers are waste when they're empty. To the Parks Service they serve a new purpose... helping to keep our trees green.
