National Soft Drink Association Award

Keep Nebraska Beautiful is honored to have received the 2002 National Litter Prevention Award from the National Soft Drink Association. The Award was based on the litter reduction efforts from six of our programs including:

1. Litter-Free School Zone Program which encourages students and staff to keep school grounds litter free. For more information on this program, see article on page 6 of this newsletter.

2. Motorist Litter Awareness Day is sponsored by KNB the third Saturday of April each year to raise awareness of littering among motorists. Car litterbags, printed with the Nebraska Litter Laws, are distributed through drive-through banks, restaurants, etc.

3. Litter Summit - KNB hosted a Litter Summit in June 2001 providing litter education and work sessions on litter to attendees from five states.

4. "Litter-It's Beneath Me" 30-second television public service announcement was produced and distributed focusing on cigarette butt litter.

5. Great America Cleanup™ was a statewide litter cleanup effort coordinated by Keep Nebraska Beautiful. Every city and village in the State was invited to participate.

There were 124 participating communities and 1,425 cleanup events. The effort involved 33,580 volunteers, 57,604 volunteer hours with 734,000 pounds of bagged litter and 4,134,073 pounds of unbagged litter collected. Additionally, 5,590 bags of clothing were collected for charity, 69 litter prevention education workshops were held, 42,393 flowers and 1,312 trees were planted.

6. Nebraska Used Oil Collection Program was initiated by Keep Nebraska Beautiful to provide a means for Nebraskans to collect their used oil for reuse. Fifteen partners from both public and private sectors formed a Leadership/Management Team to devise a program and implementation plan. Over 50,000 gallons were collected in the first year of operation. Over 40 cities and counties will have a collection sites for used oil by April 1, 2003. Check our website for a listing of the collection sites.

Executive Director's Comments

Welcome New KAB Affiliate

Keep Nebraska Beautiful is delighted to welcome a new KAB Affiliate! Keep Sidney Beautiful was certified on November 18. Many programs and projects are already planned for 2003. Rick Spearow, the Recycling Coordinator, will serve as Director of the program.

We also welcome the reactivation of the Ogallala affiliate program which will now be Keep Keith County Beautiful. Lexi Bauer will be the Director. The program will be housed in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Accomplishments of Nebraska KAB Affiliates

Each year, the local affiliates of Keep Nebraska Beautiful compile an annual report that represents the culmination of their hard work for the year. Results are in for all of the local Nebraska affiliates through this fiscal year. Many thanks to the KAB affiliate directors, Board Members, and all their volunteers for keeping Nebraska so beautiful!

Their combined totals are:

- ❖ Conducted over 900 cleanups
- ❖ 18,000 cleanup volunteers
- ❖ Held 56 Litter-Free events with 215,905 people attending
- ❖ 942 volunteers helped to plant 2,753 trees
- ❖ 144 volunteers removed graffiti from 41 locations
- ❖ 151 sites were beautified by 1,438 volunteers
- ❖ 13,493 volunteers for other projects/programs
- ❖ 31,463 total volunteers
- ❖ $19.71 was the average cost/benefit ratio (For each government dollar spent, $19.71 was returned to the community in donated goods and services!)
- ❖ 1.59 average Litter Index (A Litter Index is a number that is derived from taking a focused look at various areas within a local community and determining how littered or litter-free an area is based on a number system ranging from 1 being "no litter" to 4 being "extremely littered".)
- ❖ 4,058 presentations to classrooms provided to 18,059 students
- ❖ 35 presentations to youth groups and clubs with 8,474 young people in attendance

Everyone working together can help to Keep Nebraska Beautiful!

Great American Cleanup™ Results

The Great American Cleanup™ was a huge success in Nebraska again this spring! Events occurred during the months of March, April and May. The final results include:

- 192 communities participated
- 479 events held (cleanups, beautification efforts, recycling, reuse collections, etc.)
- 17,425 volunteers participated
- 41,692 volunteer hours donated
- 341,886 pounds of bagged litter collected
- 1,566,474 pounds of unbagged litter collected
- 3,246 trees planted
- 78,176 flowers planted

Also, many communities took part in the new “Liberty Garden” project, which consisted of anything from a single boy scout planting flowers around the family’s flagpole to over 60% of an entire community planting a “Liberty Garden” on their property. Many communities who participated planted red, white and blue flowers in a public garden such as in a park, along main street or in front of the village or city office. All Liberty Garden projects will honor the memory of the many who perished in the tragic events of September 11 of last year and reaffirm the principles of freedom and liberty on which our country has been built. It was wonderful to hear of the many commemoration efforts undertaken across the state.

Everyone who lent a hand on a cleanup, beautification event or recycling drive helped to make this year’s Great American Cleanup™ a huge success! Thanks to the 17,425 volunteers involved in these events, the state is a cleaner, more beautiful place to live and work!

If your community or group is interested in participating in the 2003 Great American Cleanup™, please call the Keep Nebraska Beautiful office for registration information. Trash bags and posters will be provided free to participants.

Postal Service Increase Donations of Undelivered Items

New U.S. Postal Service regulations that went into effect October 31, 2002, will make it easier for the Postal Service to donate undelivered product samples and other undelivered items to food banks and homeless shelters. The new regulations should also increase the number of items that are donated. The Reuse Development Organization, Inc. (ReDO) and the National Waste Prevention Coalition, along with the King County (Washington) Solid Waste Division, played a major role in developing these regulations with the Postal Service. Staff and board members with these organizations solicited and provided input from around the country, wrote the first draft of the proposed regulations, and worked directly with top Postal Service environmental officials to help move the regulations through a long process.

"These changes will help many Americans who need food and basic supplies," said Bill Ewing, executive director of the Maryland Food Bank in Baltimore, and co-chair of the ReDO board of directors. "We're very pleased the Postal Service has taken this step to streamline and improve these regulations, and we're glad that we could help them with this."

The Postal Service has estimated that U.S. post offices get stuck with up to 164,000 tons every year of undelivered product samples alone, not to mention other undelivered products and items. The new regulations will make it much easier for all undelivered items - food, toothpaste, shampoo, diapers and many other items - to be distributed to people who need them. For example, in the past, undelivered, unopened toiletries and over-the-counter drugs were not supposed to be donated at all. The new regulations specify that these items should be donated to food banks, shelters or other non-profits.

ReDO and America's Second Harvest will work in partnership with their affiliates and the Postal Service in communities across the country to make sure these product donations get to the people that need it most. America's Second Harvest provides emergency food assistance to more than 23 million hungry Americans each year. ReDO promotes the reuse of surplus and discarded materials by assisting reuse programs around the nation to meet environmental and social objectives.

The National Waste Prevention Coalition is a national network advocating waste reduction and reuse. The Coalition is coordinated by King County Solid Waste Division in Seattle. The new Postal Service regulations are online at <http://www.usps.com/cpim/ftp/bulletin/2002/html/pb22088> in the "Domestic Mail" section of the Postal Bulletin.

Litter-Free School Zone Program

The school year is well under way and with it many schools across Nebraska have a plan in place to keep their school grounds clean. For numerous schools in Nebraska, that plan includes being part of Keep Nebraska Beautiful's Litter-Free School Zone program. Through the program, schools agree to check the campus grounds weekly and remove litter that is found. Each quarter, they mail a very simple report to the Keep Nebraska Beautiful office, reporting the results of their efforts. Each participating school receives an aluminum sign to place on their grounds that proclaims, "This is a Litter Free School Zone". If your school is interested in receiving more information or that would like to be a part of this valuable program, please contact the Keep Nebraska Beautiful office at 402-486-4562 or complete a registration form on line at <www.knb.org/litter_free.html>.

Below is a list of the schools that are participating for the 2002-2003 school year. Many schools are returning from last year and several new ones have been added already this school year. We appreciate their willingness to help keep Nebraska beautiful!
